Tensions escalated in Rajasthan's Chomu town on Friday, December 26, after a mob pelted stones at policemen who were removing iron railings erected along the road outside a mosque. The police resorted to mild force to disperse the crowd. Four policemen were injured in the incident. Several people have been detained for questioning, internet services have been suspended, and security personnel have been deployed in the area to maintain the law and order situation, officials said.

"The situation is completely under control. Four policemen sustained injuries in stone pelting. Strict action will be taken against those taking law into their hands," Director General of Police (Law and Order) Sanjay Agarwal said.

DCP West, Jaipur, Hanuman Prasad Meena told news agency ANI, "There is a Kalandari Mosque here where a dispute over encroachment had been ongoing for quite some time. One party voluntarily removed the encroachment, but some people tried to re-establish it permanently by installing iron angles. We were removing these structures when some people pelted stones at the police. We will take strict action against all those involved. Currently, there is peace in the area..."

According to police, talks were held on Thursday evening between the administration and members of a community about removing some stones placed on the road area outside the mosque and the community members had agreed to remove them on their own, reported PTI.

However, after the stones were removed, some people allegedly began installing iron railings outside the mosque to create a boundary, triggering fresh objections and unrest as it encroached onto the road area, the report added.

Internet Services, Security Forces Deployed

Seeing that the situation may deteriorate, additional police forces were rushed to the spot from Chomu, Harmada, Vishwakarma, Daulatpura and other nearby police stations, officials said. Internet services have been suspended in Chomu for 24 hours as a precautionary measure, police said.

Police personnel have been conducting flag marches in the town since morning to maintain law and order. Senior officials said teams have been formed to identify and arrest those involved in the violence.

Rahul Prakash, Special Police Commissioner, Jaipur, told PTI, "We have detained about half a dozen people for questioning. Internet services have been suspended. Sufficient force has been deployed to maintain peace."

"Two to three others have also sustained minor injuries. All senior police officers are on the spot. Additional police personnel have been deployed to maintain law and order," said Usha Yadav, Deputy Superintendent of Police, Chomu.
